

Gary Srebrolow, LLB, DDS, BSc, FCLM, was a practicing dentist for over 12 years, prior to his career in law. Dr. Srebrolow is a graduate of the University of Toronto Faculty of Dentistry and York University's Osgoode Hall Law School.

Dr. Srebrolow has experience in health law litigation involving professional liability, professional regulation, hospital governance issues and professional business practice matters.

Dr. Srebrolow is the Chair of the Health Law Group at Blaney McMurtry LLP in Toronto and his full-time Health Law practice includes defending dentists in malpractice/negligence claims, on behalf of the government run professional liability program for dentists in the Province of Ontario. He also provides advice to dentists, doctors and other health care professionals on the business side of Health Law for such matters as practice agreements (associate, partnership, cost sharing and consultant), professional corporations and office start up issues (purchase, sale, leasing and construction). Dr. Srebrolow has published articles and spoken on malpractice insurance, informed consent, research ethics, medical malpractice and professional/civil liability areas of concern for dentists.