

Don Harper Mills, MD, JD is a physician and lawyer, practicing as the Medical Director of the County of Los Angeles Medical Malpractice Program devoted to claims management for the public hospitals and clinics in that County. He received his MD from the University of Cincinnati and his JD from the University of Southern California (both with honors). He teaches at the University of Southern California School of Medicine where he is a clinical Professor of Pathology as well as a clinical Professor of Psychiatry. He is a Fellow and Past President of the College of Legal Medicine and a Distinguished Fellow and Past President of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences. He participated in the development of the Academy's Code of Ethics and was chairman of Ethics Committee for many years.

Dr. Mills has written extensively in the medicolegal field and is currently on the editorial board of the Journal of Legal Medicine. He was on the first editorial board of JAMA in the 1970's.