

Mohammed I. Ranavaya, MD, JD, MS, FRCPI, FFOM, CIME, is a Professor of occupational and environmental medicine at the Marshall University School of Medicine in West Virginia and is board certified in occupational and environmental medicine. He also currently serves as the Director of the Appalachian Institute of Occupational & Environmental Medicine in West Virginia.

Prof. Ranavaya is the section editor and primary author of several chapters of AMA Guides 6th Ed. and has performed several thousand independent medical evaluations. He is an internationally recognized expert on AMA Guides and has globally taught over ten thousand physicians about skills for performing independent medical evaluations and how to be more effective in the use of the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment.

Prof. Ranavaya is a Board Certified specialist in occupational and environmental medicine. He completed his Residency/Post Doctoral Fellowship in Occupational and Environmental Medicine at West Virginia University in Morgantown where he also earned his M.S. degree in occupational health. Additionally, Professor Ranavaya also earned a Juris Doctorate (JD) from Appalachian University of Law.

Prof. Ranavaya has authored several chapters in various books on Disability Medicine and numerous articles regarding AMA Guides, disability guidelines and independent medical evaluations, etc. He has served as the chair of the editorial board of the Medical Disability Advisor, a book on workplace disability duration guidelines for various injuries and diseases and has served as the senior medical editor for Official Disability guides. He served on the senior editorial advisory board and was a contributor to the previous editions of the AMA Guides. Prof. Ranavaya is the past president of the American Academy of Disability Evaluating Physicians. He is one of the founding fathers and current President of the American Board of Independent Medical Examiners (ABIME) and has helped develop the certifying exam for physicians seeking credentialing as certified independent medical examiners.