

Victoria L. Green, MD, MHSA, MBA, JD earned her Bachelor of Science and Medical Doctorate Degrees from Northwestern University in the Honors Program in Medical Education. She completed her residency in obstetrics and gynecology at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, Michigan. She was awarded a Master's Degree from the School of Public Health at the University of Michigan in Health Management and Policy and later completed her Masters in Business Administration. She graduated from the Georgia State University College of Law with a Juris Doctorate. She is an Associate Professor in the Department of Gynecology and Obstetrics at Emory University School of Medicine and the Medical Director of the Ambulatory Care/Satellite Clinics. She has direct responsibility for residency and medical student training as the director of the Gynecology Comprehensive Breast Center, which is a division of the Avon Breast Clinic in the Georgia Cancer Center of Excellence.

Dr. Green is board certified in obstetrics and gynecology and a Fellow of both the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists and the American College of Legal Medicine. She has been appointed to numerous hospital committees including the Executive Risk Management Committee, Conflict of Interest Committee, the Committee on the Status of Women, the Ethics Committee and the Community Health Coalition. She has also served on several regional and national committees including the Professional Liability Committee of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology, the Dekalb County task force on domestic violence and as a board member for the Georgia Breast Cancer Coalition. In addition, Dr. Green is a member of the Georgia Obstetrical and Gynecological Society, National Medical Association, State Bar of Georgia, American Bar Association, American Health Lawyers Association, American Trial Lawyers Association, American College of Legal Medicine and the American College of Physician Executives.

Dr. Green serves as the deputy editor of Legal Medicine Perspectives a quarterly publication of the American College of Legal Medicine and is on the editorial board of Contemporary OB/GYN, a peer-reviewed publication.

Dr. Green has been published several times and is both previously and currently very active in a number of research projects focusing on the use of ductal lavage and BRCA testing in the breast clinic population, applicability of current risk assessment models for breast cancer in minority populations, domestic violence issues in the minority population and the impact of the Medicaid revisions on pregnancy outcomes. She has won the APGO Solvay Scholar Award, the CALI Excellence Award and the APGO Excellence in Teaching Award. She lectures extensively, both regionally and nationally, on general gynecology, breast pathology, domestic violence, safety, quality assessment/improvement and a comprehensive list of medicolegal issues including federal regulations, malpractice, ethics and contract law. Dr. Green has lectured for both physicians and attorneys at leading conferences sponsored by the Institute for Continuing Legal Education, the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology, the Managed Care Institute at Morehouse School of Medicine and Contraceptive Technology. In addition, Dr. Green functions as a consultant for the Emory Regional Training Center, the LIFE Residency Wellness Curriculum Board and the State of Georgia, Department of Human Resources/ Women's Health Division.